
UL = ETL

Our hanging fixtures are ETL listed, signifying that they meet the same safety and compliance standards as UL-listed products, with both certifications being recognized and accepted as equivalent in North America.

In that regard, Intertek (which provides the ETL Certification) and Underwriters Laboratories have equivalent accreditations from Accreditation Bodies such as ANSI and the SCC. Also, as Nationally Recognized Testing Laboratories (NRTLs), Intertek and Underwriters Laboratories have equivalent recognition from OSHA (29 CFR 1910.399(1)). From an accreditation standpoint, Intertek is entitled to receive the same recognition from AHJs as other NRTLs. (A complete list of all OSHA recognized NRTLs can be found on OSHA's website: <http://www.osha.gov/dts/otpca/nrtl/index.html>.)

Today there are more than 85,000 product families from over 7,000 global manufacturers that feature the ETL Certification mark and are eligible for sale in the US and Canada. They range from IT and industrial equipment to medical devices, lighting products, HVAC equipment, consumer electronics, and many more. These products can be found in Intertek's online directory of listed products at www.intertek.com/ETLdirectory, searchable by manufacturer name or by product standard.
